ABOUT NEWPORT'S HISTORIC DECO DISTRICT

The Oregon Coast has a special history of art deco style due to the six major bridges built in the style during the late 1930s.

These bridges did more than open the door to modern transportation, they left a unique artistic legacy on the coast. The modern streamline design of the bridges affected new construction along the new highway in places like Newport's central business district. Many new buildings used the art deco style to help identify their building or business as being modern and progressive. This resulted in a compact pocket of art deco style structures, one with its own distinct history and culture.

To honor City Center's art deco history and provide a focus for revitalization, the Newport City Council designated the district as an official "Art Deco Heritage Area" in June 2007.

The work to revitalize City Center is led by the volunteer members of the City Center Newport Association, Inc., a 501(c)(3) non profit corporation. CCNA is dedicated toward preserving and promoting Newport's art deco heritage. To learn more or to find out how you can help, visit us on Facebook, Twitter or the web at
